

The real cost of onboarding

ludogic.dev

A new hire who doesn't master the job is expensive.

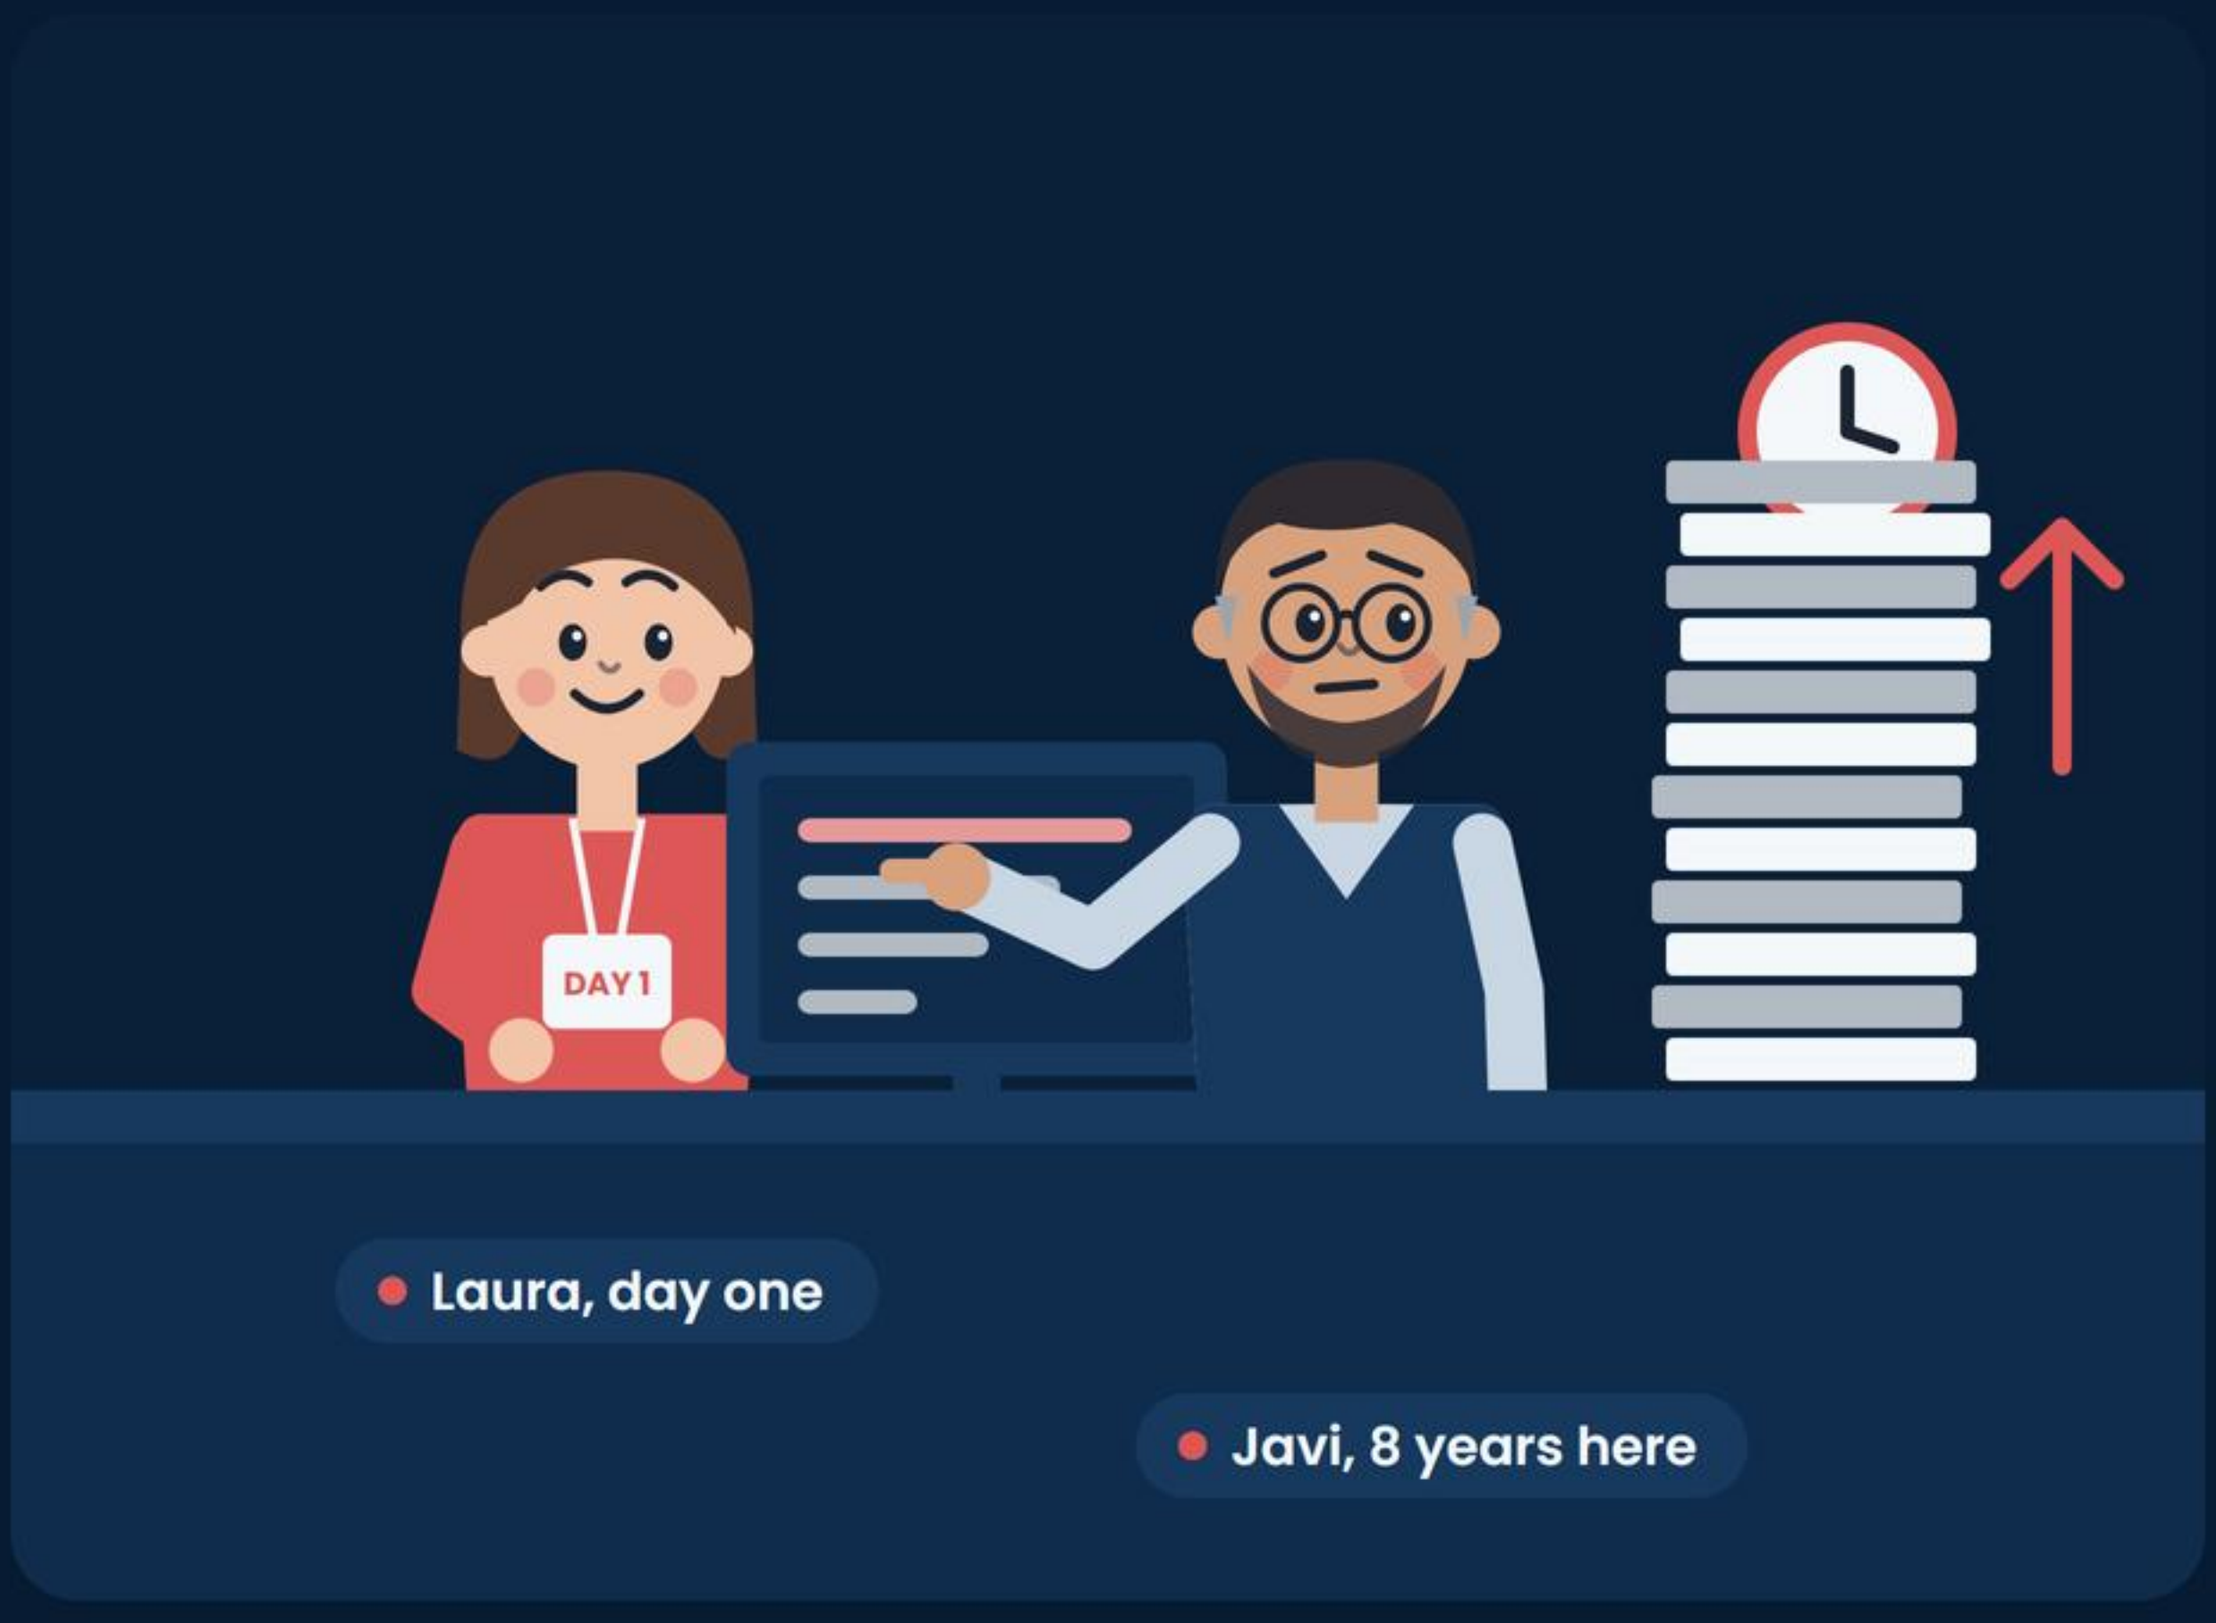

More mistakes, worse customer service, constant interruptions for seniors... and if they feel lost, they leave.

01

Instructor-led

Who pays: your senior staff.

- ✓ The cheapest to set up, and questions get answered on the spot.
- ✗ Every new hire slows the team down, and it repeats each time.

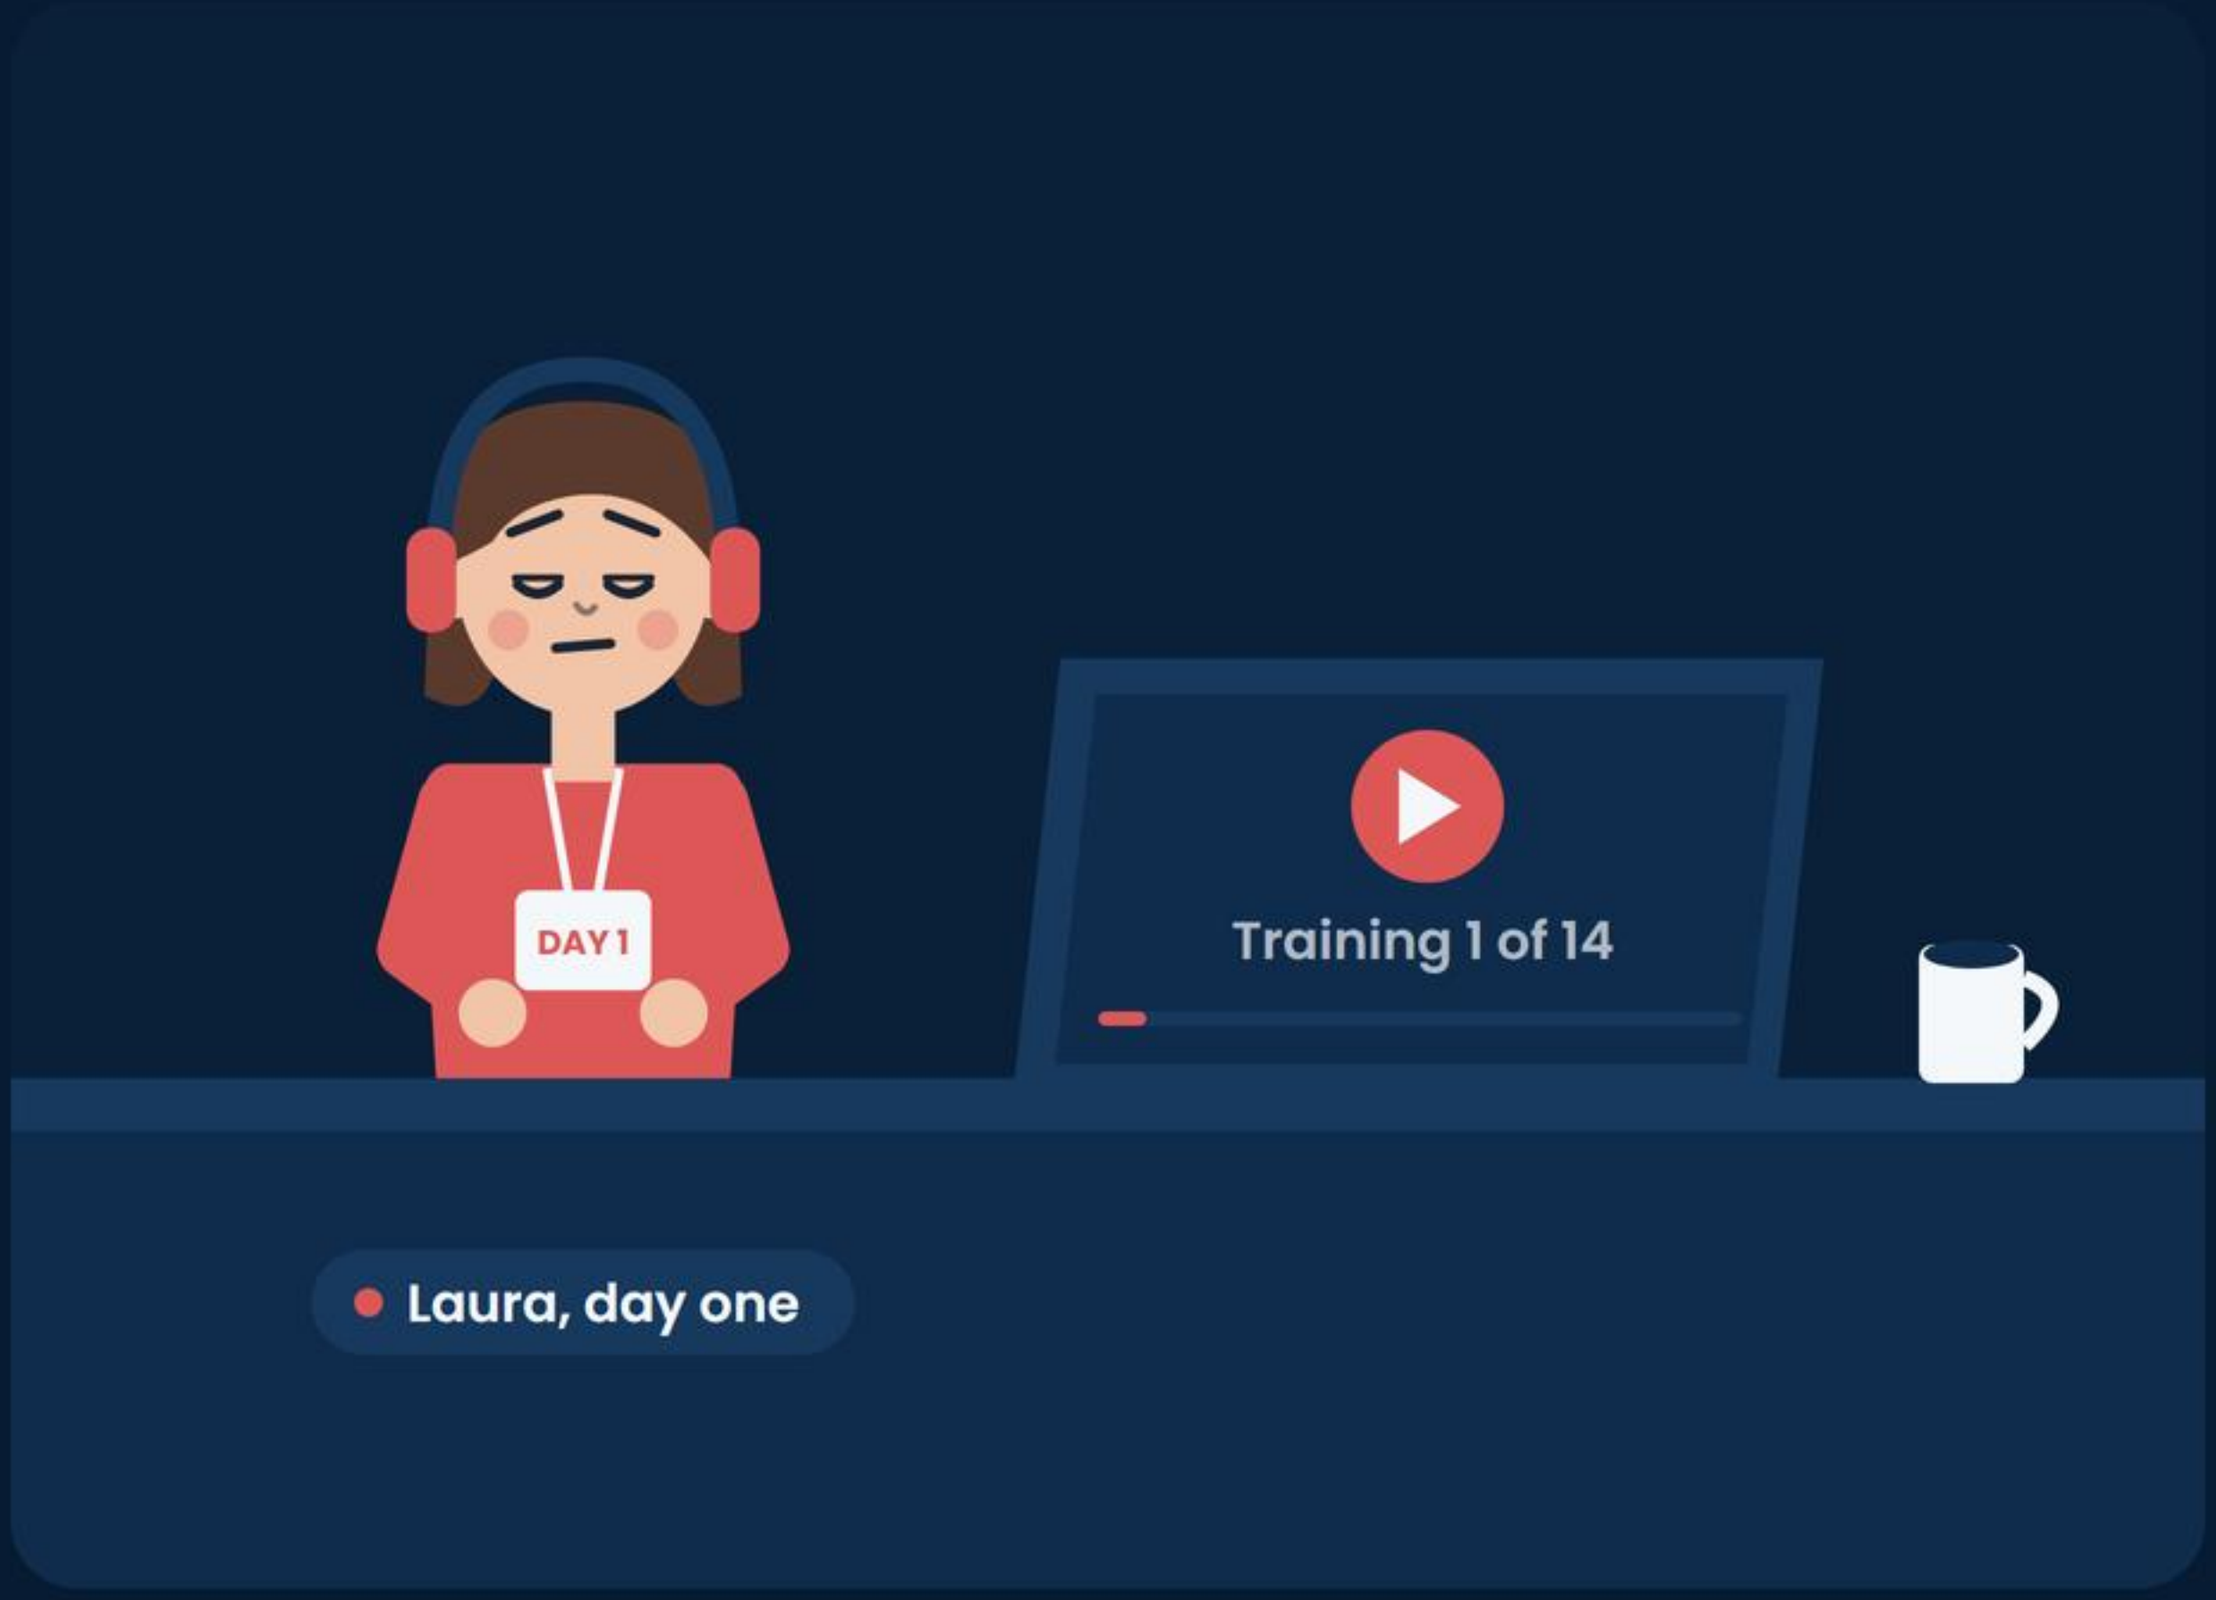

02

Recorded

Who pays: the new hire, learning alone.

- ✓ Recorded once, everyone gets the same information, and seniors are freed up.
- ✗ It's passive: hard to stay focused, and it takes longer to master the job.

Laura, day one

03

Gamified

Who pays: the company, just once.

- New hires learn at their own pace with challenges and step-by-step progress, master the job, bond with the team and stay; seniors only supervise.
- Slightly more expensive at first, because it has to be designed.

SUMMARY

	Instructor-led	Recorded	Gamified
Affordable upfront	● ● ●	● ● ○	● ○ ○
Saves senior staff time	● ○ ○	● ● ●	● ● ●
Masters the job	● ● ○	● ● ○	● ● ●
Reduces turnover	● ● ○	● ● ○	● ● ●

Turnover is a cost too.

Which one do you use?

Save this for your team

More at ludogic.dev